

10 Most Important Things You Need to Know About Your Digital Camera

1. Is your camera a Point & Shoot, DSLR, or Mirrorless?
 - a. Are you a Novice, Intermediate, or Power User?
2. How many megapixels does it capture and what is the processing speed?
 - a. While megapixels are important, a higher processing speed will allow you to capture and write quicker.
3. What kind of lenses do I need?
 - a. Point & shoots don't have interchangeable lenses
 - b. Kit lenses that come with the camera – good starter, but not so good quality
 - c. Really good lenses
4. Batteries
 - a. Manufacturer's recommended
5. Storage media/memory
 - a. Speed
 - b. Size
6. Flash
 - a. Built in
 - b. External
7. Can I use the Tripod of Photography with my digital camera? What the heck is the Tripod of Photography?!
 - a. ISO
 - b. Aperture
 - c. Shutter Speed
8. Resolution, Image Quality and File Formats
 - a. What is the best?
 - b. What are the differences?
9. Exposure modes
 - a. Basic (auto)
 - b. Creative
10. How and why do I set the White Balance?

To learn more about these topics and improve your photography skills, join Julie as she takes the mystery out of digital photography.

Online and private tutoring at TakeLessons.com